

VENTURE TO THE
THIRD EAR

VENTURE TO THE THIRD EAR

Author:
Mr. Burma Brown

In my view, life and poetry walks hand and hand. The trials, tribulations, adventures, excitement, joys and sadness are the foundation for expressing our emotions and feeling to our fellow brothers and sisters. We are sculptors of our life and the environment we live in. There are a great number of things we do not have control over and yet within the cracks of illusions we have a brief moment of enlightenment. Where great things, art, beliefs, accomplishments, manifest itself into being a reality that it's nothing less than greatness being born. To my fellow reads thank you for taking time out of your life and Venturing to the Third Ear.

SUBJECT	CONTENTS	PAGE:
Poems	Open Arms	03.
	Life	03.
	This Rose I Give to You	04.
	That Road	05.
	The Tree	05.
	My Job	06.
	Thought of You	07.
	Ancient Times	08.
	Ocean Blue	09.
	Gina	10.
	Jojie	11.
	Heart	11.
	Ancient Tree	12.
	Blue Eyed Demon	13.
	A Warrior's Conviction of Love	14.
	Thoughts	To Day I Speak To My Son	15.
		Self	16.
		Does It Show In My Eyes?	16.
		Friends	17.
This Day I Speak		18.
Into My Eyes		19.
Suddenly I'm A Man		20.
Polynesia		21.
In A Day		22.
Another Race		23.
Letters	Sided	24.
	What It Is?	25.
Lyrics	The Town of Party	27.
	Hot-water Cornbread and Mustard Greens	29.
	Rocks	30.
	In The Realms of Darkness	31.
	Pink Panties	32.
	With Beat and Soul	33.

OPEN ARMS

I come to you with open arms

And ask of you of certain things.

You give me answers of what I would expect.

But not of what I want to hear.

And so I am as I was.

And I come to you with open arms.

Life

Life is an hourglass

A circle of infinity

A moment, a place a crime, and a piece of joy

Life is hope that the day

of eternal peace will come

Life is those things you desire

But will never receive

Life is a name, a person, a child

It has no meaning, but only to those of the dead

For life is only fulfilled when you die

Because the known world is already lifeless

And is an obstacle that each must overcome

Burma Brown

3

This Rose I Give To You

This rose I give to you

is symbolic in many ways

The stem is strong and long, which means

Our friendship must be long

Trying the test of time

The thorns are the good and bad

Things that will come to be

It depends upon how we hold, behold,

Or let them be

And finally the Rose

The fragrance of spring, the moist color of life

The soft petal of love

And the glow of two spirits

Intertwining, growing with each other

Seeking the destiny that life has set forth

Becoming one

This Rose I give to You

Copyright © 2010 Burma Brown

ISBN 978-0-557-49857-4